GLOBAL GRAIN FOOD & FEED

G2F2, the premier international agri-food and feed trade exhibition and conference is back celebrating its 12th edition with the top industry speakers and ROI based audience.

Indian agricultural economy and agribusiness are poised for a vertical take-off. With the market size poised to grow aggressively, most players in the supply chain are upbeat about future prospects. agri-input suppliers, processing machinery manufacturers, logistics support services, financial institutions including banks, marketing professionals, and a host of other service providers are keen to be an integral part of the unfolding scenario and enjoy a share of the indian pie. Suppliers of agricultural inputs (seeds, fertilizers, pesticides, farm machinery including tractors), plant and machinery manufacturers, suppliers of industrial inputs, branded food product marketers, financial institutions, business consultants, service providers such as superintendents, laboratories and warehouses, media (wire agencies, agribusiness portals), and related other stakeholders will benefit from participating in the conference and promoting their products and services through the exhibition.

G2F2 is ready to infuse growth in the Grain, Food & Feed industry

G2F2 is back for it's 13th edition keeping innovation in mind. G2F2 will bring together the top global leaders of the sugar industry in Goa this year to discuss the challenges and opportunities in the Global Sugar Markets, bringing together top regional and global leaders to solve the big challenges.

For the first time ever, content will be streamed live from India to the world! This year's G2F2 will have a hybrid model of conference & exhibition where we will have an exclusive physical conference in Goa in the month of November and whilst the physical event goes on, we have got people covered who couldn't make it to the event with a virtual conference & exhibition.

Global Market Outlook

In 2020/21, global total grains production is projected to expand to 2,223m t, up by 2% y/y and an all-time high. This mainly linked to a drop in maize inventories in China, which more than offsets an accumulation of that grain in the USA. Wheat stocks are predicted at an all-time high, led by expansions in China and India. Growth of 2% is envisaged for total grains trade, with shipments of maize, wheat and sorghum accelerating.

World wheat production for 2020-2021 is estimated to be at an all-time record high at 769 million mt, compared with 763 million mt for 2019-2020, largely reflecting the change for India.

Preliminary supply and demand projections for wheat in 2020-21 point to an all-time high for production and a further build-up of stocks, but with inventory growth again concentrated in China and India.

World maize production is projected at consecutive peaks from 2020/21 onwards, reaching 1,177m t by the end of the forecast period, up by 9% from the estimate for 2018/19. Medium term growth is likely to be led by productivity gains, albeit a little slower than recently, but total area is also seen trending higher, at an average of about 1% p.a

Global rice production is seen unchanged at 499 million tonnes in 2019-20 but is forecast to rise to 509 million tonnes in the upcoming marketing year, the IGC said. Consumption rose 1% to 495 million tonnes in 2019-20 and is expected to rise another 1% to 501 million tonnes in 2021.

World corn harvested area in 2020-2021 is tentatively seen growing by 1%, mainly on a rebound in the US

Global soybean area for harvesting to rise 4% on the year in 2020-2021 because of an expected rebound in the US.

Wheat prices have gone up after a price drop in March. Rice has become more expensive, and corn has lost market due to decreased interest in biofuels. Companies are stockpiling grains and pulses, and consumers are hoarding all kinds of easy-to-store products. The COVID-19 pandemic is changing market dynamics.

The Conference topics for various sectors would revolve around the following -
